Abstract

Applicant(s): The Judicial Branch of the Navajo Nation

Title: Justice Strategic Planning

Amount requested: $192,073

The Navajo Nation proposes to continue the work to collect data, manage data and analyze data that is collected about violent crimes committed on the reservation. A Statistical Data Analyst will be maintained at the Division of Public Safety – Information Management Section. Justice planning, utilizing the data, will be used for justice planning to implement and inform our Diné Action Plan. The Peacemaking Program will work to foster healthy discussions of healing with victims and survivors of missing and murdered persons and will support the rollout of a toolkit for missing persons.

Statement of the Problem

Data Analysis:

It is the mission of the Navajo Nation Information Management Section (IMS) to “Amass and gate keep accurate, complete and current information for agencies to utilize in the safeguard of life and property.” The IMS has the responsibility to collect data from all police district reports regarding all incidents and criminal activities investigated by police officers and criminal investigators. In addition, they are vested with the responsibility to report this data, timely and accurately, to criminal justice agencies requesting for the information.

The data maintained by the IMS is rich and full of information for other agencies to interpret and utilize. The Navajo Nation is not able to utilize the information for its own planning and use without the personnel to analyze the data for criminal justice, budgetary and legislative planning.

Annually, the IMS submits the Uniform Crime Report to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The IMS observes the crime data increasing from year to year without any analysis of the data that is captured. This proposal aims to remedy this problem.

Justice Strategic Planning:

The Navajo Nation is finally seeing the completion of their Diné Action Plan that took over 5 years to finalize. In the development of our action plan, our communities identified, by consensus, that violence, substance abuse and violence were the biggest issues facing our Nation. The document outlines our communities ideas to plan solutions for these problems in their communities.

All three branches of the Navajo government saw changes in leadership and priorities while most direct service providers have maintained the course of addressing violence, substance abuse and suicide. Service providers have made progress with the solutions that were identified in the Diné Action Plan.

The plan is viewed as a live document that can change and pivot for our communities ever changing needs. Toward that effort, it is the intent of the Navajo Nation to bring its people together to review and revise our plans to address violence, substance abuse and suicide in our communities, annually. In the words of a respected Native elder, “it is our responsibility to prevent future traumas”.

Additionally, in the last 5 years, the epidemic of Missing and Murdered Diné Relatives (MMDR) has come to the forefront of priorities for the Navajo Nation and has been listed as such in the Diné Action Plan.

Missing and Murdered Diné Relatives:

The Missing and Murdered Diné Relatives (MMDR) and the Sovereign Bodies Institute (SBI), relying on community data, report that 164 missing Navajo persons have been documented from 1951 to 2019. Of these cases, it is reported that 38% of these cases are missing persons cases and 62% are murder cases. According to reports, 41% of these cases occurred on the Navajo Nation, 10% occurred off the Navajo Nation and 49% of these cases occurred in urban communities.

The MMDR report that the average age of a missing relative is 31, while 22% of the cases involve a young girl under the age of 18.

In 2018, the Navajo Nation reported missing persons call-for-service only data that there were 33 missing persons reported with 106 “juvenile runaways”; however, the data stops there. There is no data that demonstrates how each of the calls for service resolved or were possibly adjudicated. There is no analysis of the data that was completed by the Navajo Nation.

The MMDR reports the deep contrast between what our communities report and what the Navajo Nation reports. The Navajo Nation is proposing to continue to address this data gap with personnel and collaborative efforts to strategize on solutions to the violence that plagues our people and our communities.

Project Design and Implementation

Goal 1. The Navajo Nation will collect, manage and analyze data from the community, law enforcement and the courts for the purposes of making data-driven decisions about strategies to reduce violence in our communities.

Objective 1: JAG funding would allow the tribe to complete a community assessment to begin work on revising and updating our Dine Action Plan. A planning team will be created using members from the various components of the justice community, including leadership. Planning activities will be completed virtually, initially, until public health conditions deem it safe to have in-person planning activities.

Objective 2: Additionally, the Navajo Nation proposes to maintain a Crime Data Analyst Position. The crime data analyst position will be housed under the Information Management Section of the Division of Public Safety. The proposed Crime Data Analyst position will validate the data that is collected, manage the data and manipulate the data to report on emerging patterns and trends in the criminogenic activity of the Navajo Nation.

Objective 3: The Peacemaking Program proposes to host discussions of healing for victims and survivors of the missing and murdered. The healing work will include the completion of a toolkit for these individuals. The toolkit will be a resource guide that includes instructions on how to help search for missing relatives.

Capabilities and Competencies

The Navajo Nation Division of Public Safety and the Navajo Nation Judicial Branch will co-lead as the tribal agencies responsible for the grant . The Judicial Branch management team is comprised of the Chief Justice who heads the entire Judicial Branch that includes the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC). The AOC is supervised by a Director who supervises all the district Court Administrators and the entire staff of the AOC. AOC is comprised of a Human Resources, Fiscal and Information Technology offices. The AOC staff is funded through Navajo general funds.

Applicant Name: Navajo Nation
2021 Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program

There will be no organizational change. The AOC Management team and Division of Public Safety will ensure adequate fiscal oversight, oversight of implementation/work plans, and strategic direction. The team will ensure that the strategic direction of the project is aligned with the grant while incorporating the Navajo Nation's vision and mission.

The MMDR will work with the Peacemaking Program as they facilitate healing discussions and the rollout of a toolkit of information for victims and survivors of missing and murdered individuals. The MMDR was established in by the work of 24th Navajo Nation Council Delegate Amber K. Crotty. Their organization is an interdisciplinary group of volunteers who come together to plan and develop meaningful work to help victims and survivors of missing and murdered relatives. The organization is working to obtain non-profit status.

A project planning team will be the overall primary advisory committee for the project, and will receive updates from various members of the management teams on a monthly basis. The planning team will provide leadership for the project. Coordinators will be assigned various tasks within the project. The training and technical assistance provider and the Coordinators will also provide updates to the steering committee. The planning team will be comprised of justice system service providers.

Grant funds are deposited in a Navajo Nation account. All expenses will be on a reimbursement basis via submission of Navajo Nation expense forms. The Division of Finance issues checks, including payroll, and maintains the accounting system (FMIS) for all government operations which reconciles accounting records monthly. The Office of Contracts and Grants sets up the initial accounts in FMIS and performs routine maintenance of those accounts. The Contract Accounting Section will perform the electronic draw down of funds and submits the financial reports to funding agencies. The AOC Grant Administrator will be responsible for preparing the narrative reports to the grantor, as required.
