

Grandparents & Parents As Living Models

How parents live and model their lives during parenthood exemplifies an influential impact on children, as many approached their lives accordingly. Many parents are known to have deprived their children the importance of heritage knowledge, wisdom and the teaching thereof; a process deemed utmost of importance in acquisition and attainment. Thus, a properly nurtured child raised through natural feeding was deemed to have special ties to his / her mother, as well as possessing influential qualities, of whom will eventually become a dignified and a respectable person.
